All Boston mass transit was suspended Friday, and the Watertown area was in lockdown until further notice as police hunted for the marathon bombing suspect.

BY MATTHEW DELUCA, STAFF WRITER, NBC NEWS

The entire city of Boston was put on lockdown Friday morning by the Massachusetts governor as police searched for the second of two men believed to have been involved in the marathon bombings earlier this week.

Gov. Deval Patrick said people should shelter in place as authorities engaged in a “massive manhunt” – an extraordinary order that affected nearly one million people.

The second suspect was shot and killed.

Police searched the Watertown neighborhood door to door on foot and in patrol cars early Friday morning. Residents were asked to call 911 if anyone other than police came to doors in the neighborhood.

All services on the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority were suspended authorities announced earlier on Friday.

All Boston Public School activities were canceled. All city employees were told to stay in place and not come to work. If they are already at work, they have been asked to stay in place.

Trial courthouses and offices in Cambridge, Brighton, Newton, and Waltham were closed until further notice. Jurors for courthouses at the Suffolk Superior Court and Brooke Courthouses were told to stay home.

People waiting for buses or other transit services should head home and stay there, police said earlier on Friday. No vehicular traffic was being allowed in or out of Watertown, where police engaged in a shootout overnight with men armed with explosives. A no-fly zone was instituted over the Watertown area, the Federal Aviation Administration announced.

Designated portions of the MBTA system might open up again later on Friday, Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency undersecretary Kurt Schwartz said.

All Amtrak service coming into and departing from Boston's South Station was delayed as a result of police activity and Amtrak service was suspended between Boston and Providence, R.I. before all area service was suspended indefinitely around 11 a.m.

Logan Airport officials told NBC News early Friday morning that the airport was open and operating under heightened security.

Megabus suspended at least ten buses traveling between Boston and New York and at least three traveling between Boston and New Haven, Conn. All Peter Pan and Lucky Star bus line services too and from South Station were suspended.

Police said at a press conference that all of Norfolk Street in Cambridge had been shut down early on Friday, and media were warned to leave the area.

Businesses were asked to remain closed. Harvard University announced in a statement on its website that it was closed. Classes were canceled at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where a campus police officer was shot and killed. Students at Boston College were told to "remain indoors" and classes were canceled.

Emerson College tweeted that the school was closed until further notice: "Stay at home and where you are." Boston University said its police were on patrol on campus. A BU graduate student was among the three killed by the bombing on Monday.

"Search for armed suspect continues in Watertown," the Boston Police Department tweeted. "Residents reminded to remain indoors. All vehicle traffic suspended."

I'm LMAO at the thought of all those libs in Boston,.....ya know, the ones who think we don't have the right to own guns and defend ourselves.....hunkered down in their homes, scared to death, hoping and praying that this MUSLIM dirtbag doesn't kick in their back door.....because they will have no gun to even have the chance to save their own life or the lives of their children.

GNASHING MY TEETH IN FRUSTRATION that the major media - the "free press" - the supposedly independent voice - the foil to the pronouncements of Big Brother - are too busy being breathless and self-important to report this story correctly and DRAW THE SUBTLE BUT IMPORTANT DISTINCTION that the authorities have RECOMMENDED, not ORDERED, that people shelter in place. Emergency or no emergency, your freedom of movement CANNOT BE SUMMARILY SUSPENDED BY THE POLICE. This is still the United States of America, and the police cannot "lock you down" and order you to stay off the streets, if you have done nothing wrong. They can _ask— you to help them by staying inside, they can order your vehicle to stay off the streets, they can ask transit systems to close, they can stop and frisk you if the have probable cause, but THINK ABOUT IT, PEOPLE, they cannot take away your freedom to leave your house because "the bad man is on the loose somewhere around here." Shameful. In the ongoing tug of war between freedom and security, we are making it WAY TOO EASY for the balance to tilt away from freedom by thinking that this kind of thing is okay.

Redhen,

Have you not heard their own uncle describe them? "They put a shame on my whole family, a shame on the whole Chechnyan ethnicity". He also described them as Muslims - as nearly everyone in Chechnya is. They had relocated to other areas to avoid the fighting that has been going on in Chechnya - before they came to the U.S. - but they are Chechnyan muslims.

The uncle at least is more than a decent guy - have to like him. He represents what we expect of people who come to this country - he is now an AMERICAN.

This is why citizens should be allowed to conceal and carry. Instead of shutting down a whole city because citizens cannot defend themselves we allow citizens to police themselves and make the criminals fear us. Or this is just one big excercise to see how the population will react to marshall law. Ill pray for you Boston.

I don't think this was a two bro attack there is more behind them and must be dealt with. What really scares me is how fast the populace obeyed the martial law order with no questions. What amazes me about reading all the comments here is that most of us are just like these two men. But, you say, these two men killed an innocent 8 yr old boy. I have an 8 yr old son. He, remarkably, looks a lot like the boy that was killed. Every time I see his picture, my gut tightens. As horrible as that is, what you all are saying to each other and about other people, is no different. We, humans, kill others with our words every day. It is sickening. Blame the president. Blame other religions. Hate is hate. No matter who is doing it! Kill him quickly! Blow his legs off! Waterboard him, torture him, kill him, KILL HIM! That is probably exactly what they were thinking! So, how are we any different?

I have been reading and the photos prove that these are white males, but the racists are still characterizing them as being from the middle east. You all can clearly see they are caucasian, but are so explicitly and implicitly racist that you refuse to accept it. Maybe if law enforcement had not been focusing on dark-skinned suspects they might have caught them sooner. I am sure that these terrorists knew that is where the focus of the search would be. Racism harms everyone involved.

Redhen - not surprised that the next ignorant comment I saw when I scrolled down has your name attached.

These are radical muslim terrorists. Chechnyans have been fighting alongside the Taliban and others for decades. They murdered hundreds of school children in Beslan Russia with bombs. The mainstream (leftist) news media was all but wetting themselves over the prospect that those behind the Boston bombings would be "home grown" white guys. They turned out to be like 99% of all the other terrorists in the world today - muslims. Shocking!!

The bombers were Chechnyan Muslims - that is their family background. Chechnyan muslims have been among the most brutal terrorists in the world. They murdered 330 RUSSIANS in 2004 - mostly young school children who were held hostage with bombs strung all around them.

Obviously they (most likely the older brother) were in contact with elements of radical Chechnyan groups.

Those groups are the mortal enemies of ordinary Russians.

Since I last posted I discovered that Kazakhstan is 70% Sunnite Muslim not Shi'hite. Yes, there is a distinction. Instead of saying that all that worship Islam are terrorist educate yourselves. Americans hate it when other countries say we are all dirty, unclean, racist, murderers of innocent women and children. We hate when they say we only care about capitalism,i.e., money and not about people. Yet we accuse all those that worship Islam as terrorist, we characterize them all as dark-skinned demons. Now, we are faced with two terrorists from Kazakhstan. They are caucasian as are most Muslims and most Muslims terrorists. This begs the question. How did Muslim terrorists become characterized as non-caucasian? Law enforcement characterized these men as "light-skinned"; they are obviously caucasian. Did the fact that these men were not dark-skinned delay law enforcement from capturing them before they hurt more people? One poster tried prove that they are not caucasian by demanding passport pictures. America needs to deal with its explicit and implicit racism, because some day a young white person that you think is safe will rob and kill you or a family member. We need to stop characterizing caucasians as all non-violent and non-criminal and dark-skinned people as criminal and violent. Racism harms everyone.

NO ONE (except perhaps yourself) focuses on "skin color" exclusively when talking about MUSLIM terrorists. The largest (population) Muslim country on earth is Indonesia - where most people have an Asian background. There are many terrorist groups there as well - including those who killed dozens bombing nightclubs (Bali, etc.) and other places. The COMMON THREAD among all these groups is not skin color - it is their religion.

They are called CHECHENS.

They are reported to be MUSLIMS by a man who says he is their uncle. He claims they are doing what they have done because they are "losers" and not because of religious or political reasons. Uhm... excuse me if I take THAT statement with a grain of salt.

Coming from that part of the world, they are I believe Caucasian. But it's funny that so far the only people I've seen that are so worried about their skin color are the people who claim to be non-racist.

I consider myself somewhat liberal. I have NO shame in it despite how much people like you who claim conservatism try to skew a "liberal's" image. Believe in what you may but understand how idiotic and lazy it is to group a whole mass of people who believe differently than you, into one category. Looking back, Bush senior and junior who represented the conservative party was a cake walk as compared to the crazed, selfish, narcissistic and hateful individuals who slew intolerance around without shame and who choose to hide behind conservative views are now. In a time like this low lives like you choose to kick their fellow brothers and sisters when they are at their weakest instead of taking the high road.

I am from Boston, living in a region currently under lockdown. I know multiple individuals who were within minutes, feet and a last minute change of plans away from being a victim of this atrocity. These individuals were conservatives and liberals. But know this, none of that mattered during that instant when almost 200 individual's lives changed forever. None of was were wishing for a gun to fix the problem or help save us because that's NOT. WHAT. THEY. DO...especially in inexperienced hands.

People like you with narrow mindsets need to look deep within themselves and figure out why they have grown so hateful. Our society needs to really learn how to accept their wrongs, learn how to be humble once more and stop putting blame on others because they believe themselves too high to take responsibility.
