

HOME TOP VIDEOS

U.S. WORLD LOCAL POLITICS HEALTH TECH SCIENCE POP CULTURE BUSINESS INVESTIGATIONS SPORTS MORE

U.S. NEWS

DISCUSS AS: Sign in

'We got him!': Boston bombing suspect captured alive

Friday Apr 19, 2013 9:35 PM

EMAIL

NBC NEWS

Cheers fill streets as manhunt in Watertown ends

APRIL 19

advertisement

BREAKING NEWS

Residents who have been holed up in their homes, media and law enforcement officials who have been engaged in a day-long manhunt for the at-large suspect in the Boston Marathon bombing let out a cheers after it was confirmed that Dzhokhar Tsarnaev had been apprehended.

BY PETE WILLIAMS, RICHARD ESPOSITO, MICHAEL ISIKOFF AND TRACY CONNOR, NBC NEWS

The Boston Marathon bombing suspect was captured alive but wounded Friday night — after holing up in a boat in a suburban backyard following a bloody rampage that left a cop dead and a daylong manhunt that shut down the city.

The arrest of Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, 19, and the earlier death of his brother during a firefight with cops, ended five days of terror sowed by the double bombing at the marathon finish line, which killed three people, wounded 176 and left the city of Boston on edge.

"We got him," Boston Mayor Tom Menino tweeted.

"CAPTURED!!! The hunt is over. The search is done. The terror is over. And justice has won," the Boston Police Department said on its Twitter account.

Cops cheered as the suspect was taken into custody in Watertown, Mass., just before 9 p.m. Later, the people of Watertown flooded the streets, cheering every passing police car and armored vehicle in an impromptu parade. Chants of "USA! USA!" broke out. In Boston, people danced in the streets outside Fenway Park.

advertisement

Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, a suspect in the Boston Marathon bombing, has been apprehended after a day-long manhunt in a Massachusetts neighborhood. NBC's Brian Williams reports.

Police cornered Tsarnaev -- a naturalized U.S. citizen of Chechen origin -- around 7 p.m., less than an hour after police lifted a stay-indoors order for the city and its suburbs.

A resident had gone outside to smoke and noticed a tarp on the boat was flapping, a relative told NBC News. When he went to investigate, he saw what looked like a curled-up person and bloody clothes.

The man "freaked out," ran into the house and called police, the relative said.

Thermal imaging from helicopters confirmed there was a person in the boat, officials said.

Over the course of two hours, several bursts of gunfire could be heard. The police exchanged fire with Tsarnaev, threw flash-bang grenades designed to disorient him and brought a negotiator to the scene as night fell, officials said.

Just before 9 p.m., the wounded Tsarnaev was taken into custody. "He sustained significant blood loss," a law enforcement official at the scene said.

As an ambulance took the suspect to Boston Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital — where he was in serious condition — people lining the streets applauded in joy and relief.

"We are so grateful to be here right now, so grateful to able to bring justice and closure to this case," Massachusetts State Police Col. Timothy Alben said at a briefing. "We're exhausted, folks, but we have a victory here."

President Barack Obama praised the outcomes but said many questions remained. Among them, he said: "Why did young men who grew up and studied here as part of our communities and our country resort to such violence?"

Who is bombing suspect Dzhokhar Tsarnaev? Former classmate Dylan Whitaker and former neighbors Susan Musinsky and "Emily" described the person they once knew to MSNBC's Lawrence O'Donnell.

Authorities are also not sure of a motive or whether the suspects had help. Even as the standoff took place in Watertown, the FBI was taking three people in for questioning in New Bedford, Mass., who were believed to be former roommates of Tsarnaev.

"No one was detained. No one was arrested," a spokesman with the Massachusetts FBI office later said, once the two men and one woman questioned in connection with Tsarnaev were released.

But the president declared: "Whatever hateful agenda drove these men to such heinous acts will not, cannot, prevail. Whatever they thought they could achieve, they've already failed."

Tsarnaev will be questioned by a federal team called the High Value Detainee Interrogation Group, which includes officials of the FBI, CIA, and Defense Department, an Obama administration official said.

His apprehension capped a manhunt that had the city of Boston and its suburbs on total lockdown after the execution of a college campus patrol officer, a carjacking and the death of Tsarnaev's 26-year-old brother, Tamerlan, during a 200-bullet confrontation with cops.

The overnight violence had triggered an extraordinary shutdown of transportation, schools and businesses in Boston and its suburbs, with police warning more than a million people to hunker down behind locked doors while SWAT teams fanned out and bomb squads collected seven homemade explosive devices.

The brothers' bloody last stand began about five hours after the FBI released surveillance photos of two "extremely dangerous" men suspected of planting two bombs near the finish line of Monday's Boston Marathon, killing three and wounding 176.

Read more: Who are the brothers accused of the Boston Marathon bombing?

advertisement

Police are at the Cambridge, Massachusetts, home of the Boston Marathon bombing suspects, haven't yet entered the building, suspecting it may be booby-trapped. NBC's Ron Allen reports.

Tips about the identity of the suspects were still pouring in when the Tsarnaev brothers fatally shot Massachusetts Institute of Technology officer Sean Collier, 26, in his vehicle at 10:20 p.m., law enforcement officials said.

The brothers then carjacked a Mercedes SUV, holding the driver captive for a half-hour while they tried to use his cash card to get money from three ATM's, a source said. At the first, they put in the wrong number; at the second, they took out $800 and at the third, they were told they had exceeded the withdrawal limit, the source said.

The carjacking victim was released unharmed at a gas station in Cambridge, sources said. He told police the brothers said they were the marathon bombers and had just killed a campus officer.

As the duo sped in his car toward Watertown, a police chase ensued and they tossed explosive devices out the window, officials said.

There was a long exchange of gunfire, according to Andrew Kitzenberg of Watertown, who took photos of the clash from his window and shared them via social media.

"They were also utilizing bombs, which sounded and looked like grenades, while engaging in the gunfight," he told NBC News in an interview. "They also had what looked like a pressure-cooker bomb.

"I saw them light this bomb. They threw it towards the officers," he said. "There was smoke that covered our entire street."

A transit officer, identified as Richard H. Donahue, 33, was seriously injured during the pursuit. Authorities said he underwent surgery at Mount Auburn Hospital.

Kitzenberg said he saw the firefight end when Tamerlan Tsarnaev ran toward the officers and ultimately fell to the ground.

Tamerlan -- the man in the black hat from FBI photos released six hours earlier -- had an improvised explosive device strapped to his chest, law enforcement officials said.

Dzhokhar -- the brother who was wearing a white hat in the surveillance photos from the marathon -- got away when he drove the SUV through a line of police officers at the end of the street, Kitzenberg said.

Law enforcement sources told NBC News that blood found at the scene suggested Dzhokhar may have been wounded in the gun battle.

During the lockdown, subways and buses were shut down, Amtrak service to Boston was cut, and college campuses were closed. The Red Sox and Boston Bruins' home games were canceled.

Watertown was the epicenter of the search. Frightened residents were trapped inside as convoys of heavily armed officers and troops arrived by the hour and snipers perched on rooftops and in backyards.

When police finally gave residents the OK to venture outside, some cheered as they stepped outside, only to be swept back inside when shots rang out, and police converged on Tsarnaev's hideout.

An administration official said Tsarnaev was not read his Miranda rights and could be questioned without them for up to 48 hours under a special legal exception used in cases where public safety is at stake.

In a statement late Friday, The FBI said they interviewed Tamerlan in early 2011, following a tip from "a foreign government" that he was "a follower of radical Islam" and was preparing to leave the United States to join underground organizations.

The FBI said its interview two years ago of Tsarnaev and his family, along with checks of travel records, Internet activity and personal associations, "did not find any terrorism activity" at the time.

NBC News' Jonathan Dienst and Kasie Hunt contributed to this story.

Slideshow: Search for suspects in Boston Marathon bombings

Dominic Chavez / EPA

A tense night of police activity that left a university officer dead on campus just days after the Boston Marathon bombings and amid a hunt for two suspects caused officers to converge on a neighborhood outside Boston, where residents heard gunfire and explosions.

Launch slideshow

Related:

Who are the brothers accused of the Boston Marathon bombing?

Chechen insurgents deny any link to marathon bombing

What we know: Timeline of terror hunt

'Dedicated officer' gunned down by Boston Marathon suspects at MIT

Slideshow: Bombings at Boston Marathon

Boston bombing spurs Senate debate on tighter immigration screening

Tweeting police chatter creates confusion over Boston suspect

Missing student's family staggered by false accusation

This story was originally published on Sat Apr 20, 2013 12:35 AM EDT

RECENTLY POPULAR DISCUSSIONS

Freddie Gray Investigation: Six Cops Charged in His Death 771 comments

Police Body Cams: DOJ Unveils \$20M Program to Expand Use 46 comments

Freddie Gray: From Baltimore Arrest to Protests, a Timeline of the Case 332 comments

Brain-Dead Nebraska Mom Karla Perez Kept Alive to Deliver Baby 12 comments

Elizabeth Elena Salgado Case: Unknown If Body in Suitcase Is Missing Utah Woman 8 comments

20 MORE...

DISCUSSIONS 7844 comments from 1904 people

Alex 737

#3088

Condolences to the victims and their families. But who really did this...Good know russian state, russian people and know what they can did. Russian state and this political police KGB kill very many: 1999 year, 2002, 2004... Target provocation - Kavkaz war. Russian state kill many hundred people for this targets. Perhaps, in Boston they want did too.

SHARE

1 reply

poundoflesh

#3088.1

get a load of this guy

SHARE

Man-OnTop

#3089

Don't give this jerk an excuse to say he was just following his BIG Brother, like a puppy dog, it is what it is, "A Terrorist Trying to Subject s to Fear".

SHARE

JesustheChrist

#3090

Who gives you people the right to judge? You're eating up what the media is feeding you without even knowing the full true story.

SHARE

2 replies

Perry-2713557

#3090.1

The same right that gives you the right not to be a Jesus freak.

SHARE

JesustheChrist

#3090.2

Ooh man I'm so far from a Jesus freak... You should check out the FB page. ;-)

SHARE

Perry-2713557

#3091

He should go to GITMO. For once I agree with John McCain. I hope lightning doesn't strike me.

SHARE

John S.-3196981

#3092

I am beginning to think that if someone finds fewer chocolate chips in his cookies or if his shampoo isn't bubbly enough, he/ she will use this to argue that we need more guns out there. Non sequitur? Not in their minds.....

SHARE

raymond-392453

#3093

Question : "What can OBAMA DO to change your Perception of his Competency as President ?

SHARE

4 replies

Perry-2713557

#3093.1

Piss test Congress.

SHARE

ron kallungi

#3093.2

Its impossible for an incompetent person to prove he is competent

SHARE

John S.-3196981

#3093.3

He's already proved his mastery of the job despite an obstructionist congress and mindless haters. He was re-elected, after all. :-)

SHARE

ron kallungi

#3093.4

re elected, just another sign of the dismal state of our country which has been taken over by liberals.

SO HOW IS HIS NEW GUN CONTROL policies workin for ya?

And 6 years later, everyone and their brother are waiting, waiting, waiting for the economy to turn around.

SHARE

Alex 737

#3094

Don't doubt all will be known sooner or later. Russian secret service can did this. They have big experience in this.

SHARE

1 reply

Perry-2713557

#3094.1

Be careful of how the media paints things. The older brother flew into Russia and flew out of Russia seven months later last year. That doesn't mean he stayed in Russia those seven months. Russia would have zero motive and that isn't their style. They hate Chechens anyway. So, wherever you are from, go back to getting your @$%# kicked on StarCraft by the Koreans or something.

SHARE

Bill Hoo

#3095

How soon we forget...

1998, Bin Laden issues another Fatwa, and authorizes the indiscriminant killing of any Americans or Jews, anywhere, and everywhere. He began a massive movement to recruit people from all races and nations. He urged them not to discriminate between military and civilians.

SHARE

1 reply

Perry-2713557

#3095.1

Exactly right. During those seven months after having arrived back in Russia, the older brother probably went south of Chechnya and spent some time with the Taliban. The Pakistan Talibani right away claimed they did not do it and implied it was the idiots west of them. The ones who follow more closely to bin Laden's teachings. The Persians are active in the Caucuses as well. One thing for sure is these guys had "handlers."

SHARE

Perry-2713557

#3096

It would certainly be "convenient" to find out the Iranians were their "handlers." And the Iranians set it up for the North Koreans on that particular day of Kim Il Sung's birthday. Anything is still possible.

SHARE

prormk

#3097

Amazing how fast they got the resources to put this show on. and it took forever to respond to the hurricane victims .

SHARE

4 replies

Bill Hoo

#3097.1

The hurricane victims weren't blowing us up.

SHARE

Joe the Plumber

#3097.2

Yeah, two idiots shutdown an entire city and have the police running around looking like the boobs they are. If it weren't for the FBI these clowns would still be causing trouble.

Who needs terrorists from abroad when you have a police force scaring the crap out of everyone.

SHARE

321steve

#3097.3

What are you people thinking ? Doesn't anyone see the extensive use of Government power !!

Stay inside indeed !!! Sounds like Marshal Law to me. Snipers and military in our streets and searching our homes (they admitted searching some homes) what the hell is wrong with this picture !! And what's next ??

America needs to react to this or the government will know it's fine to do this again and again !!! Wake up people !!

It's too bad that you people really don't see how scary this is. I find it ironic as hell that about an hour after "Marshal Law" was lifted they found suspect #2 . Searched for him all day, locked down -- or up one million American citizens and only after people were "allowed" to go outside did he get caught.

Yes the Suspect was dangerous and it's great he was caught, but at what price.

Every day is dangerous in some way, I do not want my government telling me I can't leave my house, ride a plane, train, or automobile, have military in my streets and close down my business.

That is not what I expect from a FREE land !!!

Yes the terrorist was scary but the real scary part of the story was our government is too damn strong and doesn't think too much on locking us down or I say again locking us up .. What is house arrest anyway ??

Think about that. I guess most people think it was OK what our government did and that is horrifying.

If they know they got away with this now , What comes next ?

O to live ignorant, wake up America do you really want to be "locked up" every time the government says we are in danger.

SHARE

pittsburgh-2731485

#3097.4

the people up there were in danger you idiot. thats why the lockdown. if the suspects started shooting and everyone was just hanging outside being free then more deaths would have happened. its amazing how stupid you righties can be. also our government is always in a constant state of change. there is no one powerful person dictating everything which is what you really fear. the government does what it has to but we control it. thats what voting is about. thats why it pisses me off that the GOP is trying to make it harder for people to vote. that is whats scary right wing politics.

SHARE

Jose Jimanez

#3098

:You don't know jack: your comment is ridiculous. The President was involved in every planning aspect from the beginning. Without his approval as Commander-in-Chief, there would be NO Seal involvement. He could have used Air Force Drones, He could have used Air Force B-52/stealth bombing, He could have paid mercenaries. Had this gone awry with casualties. U would have been first to excoriate him as reckless, politically motivated, etc. The Seal Unit thanked him with their banner, etc. Just look at the adulation after Bush's "Mission Accomplished". No, your dismissal is clearly base political, etc. BTW, my son is Navy and an Afghanistan veteran and I'm USAF Ret.

SHARE

Closet Columnist

#3099

Boston Marathon Bombing – It's About Time; Police and Federal Forces
Posted by closetcolumnist

It's about time.

They responded on Monday when the bombs went off at the Boston Marathon. They stayed on shift well after they should have been off. They came in from days off, canceled vacations. They came together, from other cities across the region.

They worked tirelessly for four more days and nights, in pursuit of the two suspects who bombed the Boston Marathon and brought the city to a halt, but the nation to its side. They sought the two brothers, one of whom set the bomb down at the feet of eight-year-old

Last Viewed by First Circuit Library on 05/01/2015

Martin Richard.

Then they fought with them at MIT, where Officer Sean Collier was killed, and then the older brother was killed (perhaps by his younger brother, driving over him in the stolen SUV), and the younger brother fled the scene.

Then they searched through the night yet again, and all day the next day, house-to-house, door-to-door, still and always protecting the citizens, the community, their city.

Then they found him. Wounded, weak, hiding in a boat in a back yard. They exchanged gunfire. They talked him out. They ensured he wasn't wired with explosives.

And they brought him in. In to the hospital, because he needed first aid. They needed him alive, but also the doctors have a job to do, and they took the hippocratic oath to save lives; even if no one would blame them for wanting to take a different route when just down the hall in the same hospital were wounded innocents this inhuman had attempted to murder in his terrorist plot with his brother and who knows who else.

They got him. They brought him in alive.

And the people cheered.

Seems to me it's about time we cheer our police.

SHARE

Nita Hand

#3100

I would sure like to know how they missed him in the manhunt. Really...WTF???

SHARE

Stephen Zukowski

#3101

I hate to say it but I still don't see any real evidence. All this hearsay and no true evidence, can we wait to see what he has to say prior to hanging him? Also I do not understand why people think this is more of an act of terrorism then the Colorado or Sandy Hook shootings, can someone please explain that? How is it that if you use a gun to kill people you are "American" and it becomes a question of freedoms, but the second you use 2nd grade chemistry to kill less people then the shooter it becomes terrorism?

That is the most disturbing part of this, why should he not get his day in court? Is CNN and WTNH not full of stories about Sandy Hook and Colorado? What is the difference other then these two did not kill anywhere near the number of innocent people, is that why its terrorism? Seriously though how is this more of an attack, just because it involved a few pipe bombs?

Also notice how they do not have any real evidence. There are no actual images of these two doing anything other than posing for pictures. A shot of someone walking down the street with a back pack is not evidence. Nor is someone following procedure and remaining calm during a disaster, as we are taught to remain calm and not trample everyone. Also what are these reports of random gunfire in the neighborhood and this explosion? Did he even have a gun on him in the boat? Also who deploys a flash bang and then does not try to apprehend the suspect?

I await the true evidence and his day in court. This is as American as the right to own guns, we get our day in court. And as far as them having a "real grenade" all I have to say is "OMGZ you guys a real grenade please take away my freedoms and tell me about how it is not safe to go outside.

SHARE

1 reply

judy-3788515

#3101.1

'I hate to say it' ?? Then don't....

SHARE

Daniel Yeager-4084260

#3102

What I want to know ?? Suddenly the family and Widow turn up ?? Where were they when the original pictures came up !!

SHARE

Daniel Yeager-4084260

#3103

The Uncle ? Did he call in and say These are my Nephews ??

SHARE

here is some more FBI photos of the suspect, everyone look at this evidence

SHARE

#3104

judy-3788515

#3105

Everything went quickly with the catching of these guys....Happy to see it went like that and proud of the present Liberal administration for getting the job done

SHARE

1 reply

Mitch Cumsteen

#3105.1

The present LIBERAL administration sucks. Had nothing to do with this capture

SHARE

OscarDelta5

#3106

I understand the "Allied Communist Layers United" is concerned about his rights. They should be arrested along with the terrorist.

SHARE

ZoeAnderson24

#3107

Oliver. if you think Julie`s c0mment is impossible... on saturday I got themselves a Honda NSX since getting a check for $5524 this-last/4 weeks and-more than, ten-k last month. this is actually the easiest-job I've ever had. I actually started 4 months ago and right away startad bringin home minimum $77... per-hour. I use this website, Big44.com

SHARE

GlennB61

#3108

I think most everyone here is really off topic, but what the heck. The Boston PD showed as much immaturity with its cute little tweet as any other immature person commenting on something serious. I mean I think, at least for me, this was a serious incident. But hey maybe I am just out of touch with the times. I see no reason to celebrate the capture of one of the bombing suspects and the death of the other one like the Boston PD won the World Series or Super Bowl.

SHARE

Vera-586899

#3109

I think, Glenn, that everyone was under so much pressure that now everyone is releasing the tension in the form of celebrating and they deserve to have fun after this awful week. Also with all the bullet holes in this Dzhokhar character (apparently facial or neck and groin injuries) , he's getting a taste of his own medicine, which he richly deserves!! I hope he lives to talk and talk to the Feds.

SHARE

Jennifer from Boston, MA

#3110

To NBC News article authors: Pete Williams, Richard Esposito, Michael Isikoff and Tracy Connor:

"Frightened residents were trapped inside as convoys of heavily armed officers and troops arrived by the hour and snipers perched on rooftops and in backyards."

We of Boston will have you know that never were we "trapped inside." We simply complied with a request to stay indoors to allow our wonderful police and investigators do their job(s). How dare you victimize us? We are strong! We recognized the importance of the ongoing search and investigation and assisted in the best way that we could: to stay out of the way...

Thank you!

SHARE

mhcp

#3111

How can we celebrate anything in this country ? The pictures of people cheering is typical of ignorant Americans. This is no time to celebrate. This is a time to reflect and look at what AMERICA creates. America is one big mess! America is till the WIld Wild West... God Bless all Countries!

SHARE

1 reply

ray-2211901

#3111.1

Bloodthirsty Americans

SHARE

GooseEgg

#3112

I say we cut his leg off, shove it up his @$%#. And let the poison slowly rot and kill him slowly.

SHARE

Ertdfg

#3113

Police officers facing 2 men? 200 bullets.

You want a gun for self-defense? 10 or 15 bullet limit in your magazine.. you shouldn't need more.

Why exactly should I be expected to be 20 times as skilled as a trained police officer? Clearly I should be allowed 100 rounds per potential assailant. I've seen reports of 3-4 men in a gang doing home invasions near me... 300-400 seems a reasonable magazine limit. Less than that; I'd have to ask why I should be more skilled than the police. Should I run faster than an Olympic sprinter as well? Punch harder than a heavyweight boxer? If the people who have this as their job can't do better, why do you think I should be expected to?

SHARE

wally gold miner

#3114

It appears the older brother was always leading the action. He then strapped explosives on his chest and tried to rush the police, so he could blow up all of them. The younger brother then ran over his older brother with the car, to stop him from killing the police. The younger brother did carry one of the bombs into the Marathon, but it was placed at the second location and if nobody was killed by his bomb, there will be no way to prove that he killed anyone. I am sure the Boston Town Folks, will want to kill the younger brother, even though they might not be able to prove that he killed anyone. They had hundred of Officers surrounding that covered boat, but they almost allowed the younger brother to bleed to death, before they tried to capture him. The Officers had on bullet proof vests, bullet proof arm covers, bullet proof helmets and still they were scared. All they would have had to do, was pull the plastic off of the boat and lob a Tear Gas Bomb into the boat. That way they could have taken him to the hospital an hour sooner, possibly saving his life.

SHARE

1 reply

ray-2211901

#3114.1

How many rounds did the cops fire. And they couldn't hit the guy. Did the cops recover a gun from the suspect?

SHARE

MissPeaches

#3115

Must Read... <http://americainchains2009.wordpress.com/2nd-ammendment/>

SHARE

Hiltonaire

#3116

U.S Army behind the attack on American civilians ?

SHARE

2 replies

Mitch Cumsteen

#3116.1

Yea Hiltonaire. and the US Army behind your lobotomy operation

SHARE

ray-2211901

#3116.2

CIA involvement? If this attack makes NYC safer, is it justified.

SHARE

John Smtih1

#3117

My Question is why on earth did we take this Freak Job alive? He killed 4 and wounded countless, and we bring him to a hospital that is treating the same people that he hurt? Outrageous.

SHARE

Big dog-527315

#3118

How does the boston police claim they got him..a victim with his legs blown off gave them a discription..he rob a convience store and killed a policeman before you located him.....a guy went out for a smoke and found him in his boat outside of your containment area..sounds like the citizens of boston got him...

SHARE

562411can

#3119

The American military orchestrated this attack and set up these two guys to take the blame. Another state-sponsored false-flag attack to bolster the phony war on terrorism and to curtail the civil liberties of American citizens. What else is new ? This is becoming all to regular.

SHARE

AllahEatMe

#3120

Do not speak of my prophet in a bad way.

SHARE

AllahEatMe

#3121

I'm still waiting for the Muslim community to come out and denounce all the Muslim irrational violence in the world. No other "peaceful" religion will threaten and cut off your head for not converting, by denouncing, or by saying anything negative about their religion, than Muslims. Why is that. Until they start denouncing these evil people, like the uncle of these evil bombers, then they are all in the same boat.

SHARE

logic-logic

#3122

Let's see your sources for that. And logically, no I'm not wrong. I'll ask you the same questions...

Are all terrorists Muslim?

Are all Muslims terrorists?

Are the majority of Muslims terrorists?

You're generalizing about the underlying issue of the religion of Islam and Islam being the reason for their terrorists actions, ergo you have to look at the Islamic population as a whole to make your claims and put it into perspective. If you're going to generalize about the

Last Viewed by First Circuit Library on 05/01/2015

Islamic population, put it in the proper perspective

Are the majority of terrorist Muslims ? Now your questions are complete.. Next time to do not make the error of omission Sarah

SHARE

An1010

#3123

We Americans are the most feared nation in the world, our border patrol, our airport checking, even we have our own immigration posts on many airports around the world. What are we afraid of? We know very well What goes around Comes around. We need to define the word Terrorism, who started the second world war? Muslims? Who killed 20 million Aborigines in Australia? Muslims? Who dropped nuclear bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki? Muslims? Who killed more than 100 million Indians in North America? Muslims? Who killed more than 50 millions Indians in South America? Muslims? Who took 180 million Africans as slaves when 88% of them died, threw them in Atlantic Ocean? Muslims? No they were not Muslims. First of all, you have to define terrorism properly. If non-Muslim does something bad, it is a crime, but if a Muslim commits the same, he is a terrorist. So first remove the double standards and then come to the point.

At least other people get a Visa before coming to our country and then commit crime, we do it without permission and barge into other countries with false statements saying this and that country has a weapon of mass destruction and when nothing is found, our president says oh they could have made one or intended to make one. Watch Showtime interview with Dick Cheney where he had no evidence what so ever that Sadam had weapons of mass destruction, but made public and congress fool with faulty documents. So all the killing of innocent men, women, and children was lawful in Afghanistan and Iraq because it was conducted by us, The United States of America and we can't be listed as a terrorist country? R.I.P to the 2,976 people that lost their lives on 9/11 and 3 people who lost their lives in Boston Bombing and R.I.P to the 48,644 innocent Afghans and 1,690,903 innocent Iraqi men, women, and children who paid an ultimate price for the crime they didn't commit. Our 9/11 is their 24/7. Go figure out how fair we have been to ourselves and others then point your fingers.

SHARE

An1010

#3124

It's not all about religion, it has a lot to do with our behavior and our foreign policies toward other countries. You can't uproot terrorism by just bombing others and with drone attacks, it's time to rethink our ways and stop thinking Muslims kill the most or Muslims are extremists. We have destroyed millions of families and those 3rd world countries and we are so hyped up on 3 deaths and on 150 injuries. They are just as human beings as we are, we killed 37 soldiers in Pakistan with Drone attack by mistake and all we said oh Sorry, we killed women, children and innocent hard working men who were the only support to their families in Afghanistan and Iraq and all we said who this could be expected in wars. Well then we should have expected what happened in Boston, should have not been that surprised. Instead of long debates and trying to prove my speech is better than others, its time to question our government why world hates us, bring that era back where we lived with harmony and peace and we didn't have to go through all this. Take an individual responsibility and try to reach out to world to show how we Americans are and stop hating because he she or whoever is a Muslim or terrorist. Not to forget, we are the creator of Al-Qaida and we were once supporter of Bin Laden until he turned on us for our bad behavior toward that region of the world. Some of you people surprised the hell out of me with your comments. We are not killing terrorists, but creating more and more people who hate us and want to take revenge from us, why would a 7 year old kid, the only survivor of the family sitting in front of his demolished home and dead bodies of his siblings and parents would want to love us? And there are millions of them in Afghanistan and Iraq. God forgive our sins and God Bless our Great Nation and may give us senses to think and act right. God Bless America!

SHARE

Tao of wow

#3125

I would like mainstream media to start covering these points :Boston Bombing: What You Aren't Being Told www.youtube.comFollow us on Facebook: <http://facebook.com/StormCloudsGathering> In this video we are going to demonstrate that at the very minimum the authorities had prior ...

SHARE

DueTime

#3126

My thoughts about the Boston Bombings?

Simple enough...

Please take a moment to check the article linked to this link and you'll understand.

Sign the petition if you're agree with it, but please, take a moment to read the linked article first about the 17 unanswered questions regarding the Boston Bombing.

That's all.

SHARE

SHARE

awtist

#3127

Just heard that NBC is cancelling Rock Center. Stupid move NBC, it's one of the only intelligent shows on network TV

Boooooooooooooooooooooo Hisssssssssssssssssssssssssssssss

SHARE

Start a new conversation:

Last Viewed by First Circuit Library on 05/01/2015